News and the Jews

The week in review

Who Is A Jew

Minister of the Interior, Eli Yishai, announced on Thursday that in 2010, 94% of the new immigrants will be non-Jews. Yishai stated the alarming reality demands the Law of Return be amended to limit the trend that will lead to a loss, the Jewish majority in Israel.

Yishai pointed out that at present, there is a growing number of IDF soldiers refusing to take the oath of allegiance on the Bible, insisting on doing so on the New Testament.

VIP Terrorist

The GSS (General Security Service – Shin/Bet) received information from terrorists in custody, that senior PA officials have been transporting illegal weapons and ammunition from Jordan, taking advantage of the VIP cars permitting them to pass IDF checkpoints without inspections.

European Unions True Colors

Though the United Nations backed off from its plan to investigate Israel for the Jenin battles of two months ago, the European Union refuses to give up. Its European Commission is currently visiting in Israel, and negative superlatives are once again being dramatically sounded to describe what happened in Jenin. It will be recalled that the IDF preferred to endanger its own soldiers, as opposed to "innocent" PA residents, during the anti-terrorism battles against the terrorist strongholds in Jenin. Israel lost 23 soldiers in the Jenin battles, including 13 in one ambush. Despite this, Arab accusations of an Israeli "massacre" in Jenin echoed for weeks afterwards in the world media, until it became clear that instead of the "hundreds" of dead, there were actually only about 50. This has not stopped the Chairman of the Commission from describing what he saw there yesterday as "horrific," and adding, "Europe is frustrated with Israel."

STUFF you should know

Republicans And Israel

A new poll (published on June 11, 2002) conducted among American voters by the Gallup polling agency for CNN and USA Today has found that American Republicans were much more likely than Democrats to believe that the United States supports Israel "the right amount." The question asked of 800 adult respondents was "Do you think the United States supports Israel too much, about the right amount, or too little?"

47% of the Republican respondents said that the US support for Israel is the right amount, 12% said too little and 36%, too much. In contrast, a majority of Democrats (51%) say US support for Israel is too much, while 32% say it is the right amount. Independents are about evenly divided between the two points of view.

PEOPLE of the BOOK

The Reality Behind The Language Of Diplomacy

When Abraham first entered the Land of Canaan, G-d promised him, "I will give this land to your descendants. [1]" At that time the Land of Israel became the eternal heritage of the Jewish people, their land for all time. Even during the years of our people's exile, Eretz Yisrael remains our land, as reflected in the prayer we recite three times each day: "Gather us together from the four corners of the earth to our land. [2]"

In this light, I find both strange and threatening the report that the present government of Israel is prepared to surrender portions of the land to other nations. Although they call this autonomy, the diplomatic terminology used is of no consequence. In practice, they are laying the foundation for the establishment of a Palestinian state within Eretz Yisrael, forcing the withdrawal of a Jewish presence from large portions of Judea, Samaria and Gaza, and eventually ceding even the holy cities of Hebron and Jerusalem to the Arabs. This is a matter of urgent concern: lives are at stake.

A Terrorist Remorse

"Next time, I would become a fighter, and if I saw any Jews I wouldn't hesitate to shoot them, but I wouldn't want to hurt myself,"
